WHICH COUNTRIES ARE OPEN TO VACCINATED TRAVELLERS? SPAIN, PORTUGAL AND MORE

Some countries have said they'll allow international travellers to enter without negative coronavirus tests or having to quarantine – once they've had the Covid vaccination. Here's what you need to know. This article is being constantly updated with the latest developments.

Spain

Since 2 July, the Spanish government has required all arrivals to Spain from the UK to present on entry one of the following: a negative Covid-19 test; or proof of vaccination. Spain is on the UK's amber list, but from Monday 19 July fully vaccinated travellers will be able to visit amber list countries without quarantining upon return.

Where to stay:

Are you looking for time to zone out and rest up, or a buzzing city break? After a year at home, it can be hard to choose, but Spain has both. Start in Barcelona at the chic Nobu Hotel for the sights and architecture, before hopping to the Balearic Island of Mallorca and checking into the El Llorenç Parc De La Mar for rooftop views, crystal waters and sunshine.

What to do:

As well as feasting on tapas until you burst, we recommend hiring a car to drive the winding coastal paths of Mallorca. Take a stop at Es Pontàs, a natural arch in the southeastern part of the island, in time for sunset.
